

I am

Sunshine baby, ladybug

Giggles, little cherub

The names of innocence,

The names without sin,

The names that were granted by an infinite love

I've collected many more, perhaps not as bright

No matter. I long to be, once again a child of light

In my dreams, of sincere thoughts

I am that which guides the lost

Lost in translation, lost in their mind

Lost in a place where, even I, am blind

By the powers that wield the gifts of us

Of all that will be and all that ever was

To believe in more, to believe in greater

Is to see the unknown, is to know thy Maker

As I reach far above, I long to return Home

I am called by name to greet You at Your throne

I am as You say I am

A life, a light, a soul

I am as You say I am

A name as new as old

For I will never be as much as You are

I am as You say I am

For my will is bound to You once more